Housing, Theory and Society

Editor:

David Clapham, Cardiff University, UK

4 issues per year

Print ISSN: 1403-6096, Online ISSN: 1651-2278

Housing, Theory and Society aims to encourage the application and development of social theory in the housing field. The journal has a broad focus that includes content related to international housing, social theory and other social issues. Contributions regularly integrate housing research into particular aspects of social science, social research and policy.

The journal also includes systematic and theoretical comparative studies of housing, and conceptually refined approaches to differences between housing systems. Supported by a distinguished, international editorial board, the Editor welcomes papers from all across the world.

International Journal of Housing Policy

Previously the European Journal of Housing Policy

Editor:

Suzanne Fitzpatrick, University of York, UK

4 issues per year

Print ISSN: 1461-6718, Online ISSN: 1473-3269

The International Journal of Housing Policy (IJHP) aims to be the leading forum for the critical analysis of housing policy, systems and practice from a social science perspective. It welcomes articles based on policy-relevant research and analysis focused on all parts of the world. The journal especially encourages papers that contribute to comparative housing analysis, but articles on national or sub-national housing systems are also welcome if they contain data, arguments or policy implications that are relevant to an international audience. The IJHP particularly invites papers which link developments in housing with broader social, economic and political change and which place housing policies and practice in the context of other public policies.
